

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In order to enable treatment agents such as mouth water or abrasive substances to be added to the spray water in an oral douche, the hand piece of the oral douche is provided with a mixing reservoir that includes a mixing chamber on the lower end of the hand piece. The mixing chamber is arranged in the main or subsidiary flow of the spray water supply line. A water-soluble tablet containing the treating agents is arranged therein. Mixing of the treating agents is determined by the shape and size of the supply and discharge line to the mixing chamber.